

Cross-University Entrepreneurship

Initiatives

Chris Pavlides, Executive Director

Innovation and Entrepreneurship Institute, Temple University

Entrepreneurship Is For Everyone

- Temple University has 17 schools and colleges - the Innovation and Entrepreneurship Institute serves them all.
- More innovation comes from the life sciences, technology and the arts than the business school.
- Changing economy – new employment marketplace causes many to look for new career options ... Universities should oblige.
- Temple University Council on Entrepreneurship unites representatives from every school and college to develop and promote entrepreneurial programs.

Results at Temple University

- Annual Business Innovation Competition
 - Across three phases, enjoyed participation from greatest number of schools and colleges (16/17) this past year
 - Winners in 3 phases were from Law School, School of Dentistry, School of Art
- Successful Interdisciplinary Conferences
 - Entrepreneurship in the Arts
 - Biotechnology Funding conference
 - Invention to Venture Technology Commercialization workshop
 - Social Entrepreneurship Conference

Certificate Programs Under Development

- Warm reception from School of Art, College of Science and Technology, College of Engineering, College of Health Professions, College of Music and Dance
- Students will take one introductory course in their home school, one “tools” course and one business planning course in the business school.
- Opportunity to engage new adjunct faculty and alumni speakers across university.

New Directions for IEI Address Cross-University Needs

- Mid-Atlantic Diamond Ventures business cultivator for early-stage science and technology companies
- Membership in public-private Keystone Innovation Zone to support biotechnology ventures
- Forthcoming Temple Entrepreneurs Network to serve alumni from every school and college
